Chimgae Tumurbaatar is a business executive specializing in the investment and financing of energy, mining, infrastructure and agriculture. She has managed gold mining and energy projects, engaging the United States government and Mongolian government at the most senior levels. Chimgae has greatly influenced the strategic direction of both the public and private sectors within these industries. She has managed the project financials and legal transactions of controversial mining projects. Chimgae also has experience dealing with international financial institutions such as OPIC and the Export-Import Bank of the United States. In her dealings with governments and private entities, Chimgae is an effective cross-cultural communicator and always maintains the highest ethical standards.

Chimgae is the founder and President of MGL Global LLC through which she initiated the very first Energy Cooperation Dialogue between State Department and the Ministry of Energy of Mongolia. She continued as a key player in this cooperation dialogue. Chimgae is an SME and serves as a risk analyst and strategy advisor for market assessment and localization strategies for U.S. investors doing business in Mongolia. She also serves as Mongolia Country Director at the Eurasia Center, based in Washington DC. In this role, Chimgae is a liaison among Mongolian government agencies, the U.S. government, and multi-national corporations.
